FRAMED

Framing has been used for centuries to enhance the beauty of pictures as well as the room in which they are displayed. The style of a decorative picture frame can say a lot about the picture it contains. The framing process is not simply about hanging and displaying your pictures, but involves the creative use of moldings that emphasize various aspects of the picture framed within.

Matted & Framed

Artwork is matted and framed into the metallic or wooden frames and covered by glass or acrylic. The frame provides structural and decorative support for the art. It should be complementary and not distract from the image.

Deep Frame

In the Deep Frame option the image is sandwiched in between 2 layers of glass, which in turn creates pleasing shadow around the image inside the frame itself.

STRETCHED

Canvas Stretching provides a clean, finished look from front, side and back. Canvas is covered by a UV coated acrylic finish to protect the image from dust, moisture and fading.

Gallery Wrap

Canvas is wrapped around 2 or 4 cm deep wooden support bars to create a finished look that allows you to hang the piece without a frame. Image is extended to cover the edges of the canvas for a look that's both natural and artistic. This option is perfect for those who like simplicity and want to have the Artwork ready for hanging right out of the box or for those who don't know which frame to choose.

Thin Wrap

GICLÉE PRINTS

Giclées are Museum quality Fine-Art reproductions, also called Archival Prints. These are the result of highly advanced digital printing technology.

A Fine-art Giclée is the closest to an original painting you can get. These artworks are made with an ultra-high-resolution fine-art Epson SureColor P800 / P8000 printer, using ten (eleven) separate cartridges of the very finest archival Epson UltraChrome(R) HDX Ink Technology on acid free Hahnemühle or Epson premium canvas or papers. Independent testing by Wilhelm Imaging Research Inc. (a world-leader in image-longevity testing) has established that these "Archival Prints" or Giclées will last more than 200 years before any noticeable shift in color integrity occurs. Unlike regular printed reproductions, Giclées are truly durable "Museum quality" Fine-Art reproductions.

The color and artistic value, quality of materials, and overall looks make a Fine-art Giclée much more valuable and much more expensive to produce than any other type of reproduction. Its Market value increases even more, if it is of a limited edition of 100 pieces or less, and if it has been pencil signed and numbered by the Artist. Giclées are usually accompanied by an "Certificate of Authenticity" indicating title of the original, and size of the limited edition.

A Fine-art Giclée is created by tiny jets spraying millions of droplets of archival, pigmented inks onto a sheet of fine art, acid free paper or onto cotton canvas.

This spray of ink, more than 4 million droplets per second, whirls onto paper spinning on a drum at 250 inches per second. Hence the name Giclée is French for "fine spray."

Precise computer calculations control ten ink jets that together produce 512 shades of dense, special quality ink. The information controlling the jets comes directly from a computer - no printing film or plates are involved. The computer's information is scanned directly from the artist's original work or a digital image of it. An art print emerges, of a superior quality than a serigraph or lithograph. A true Museum-quality Fine-Art reproduction.

Digigraphie® by Epson ensures the highest standards for digital art reproduction as the result of many years of research, achieving the highest technical performance from its printers and Epson UltraChrome® pigment inks. This label of excellence is based on precise criteria and strict rules of use, including a selection of high-quality art papers that can warranty a minimum durability of the art work printed of more than 60 years.

PLATINUM PRINTS

Platinum prints, also called platinotypes, are photographic prints made by a monochrome printing process involving platinum. The platinum tones range from warm black, to reddish brown, to expanded mid-tone grays that are unobtainable in silver prints. Platinum lies on the paper surface and the final platinum image is absolutely matte with a deposit of platinum (and/or palladium, its sister element which is also used in most platinum photographs) absorbed slightly into the paper. Platinum / Palladium prints are known for their beauty, archival stability and unique, one-of-a-kind print statement.

Platinum Print

Platinum prints are the most durable of all photographic processes. The platinum group metals are very stable against chemical reactions that might degrade the print – even more stable than gold. It is estimated that a platinum image, properly made, can last thousands of years.

Palladium Print

There are some different characteristics of a palladium print, compared to a platinum print. They have a warmer tone, large tonal range, up to  $D=2.1$ , (thus requiring a contrast-rich negative for printing), deeper blacks, with a higher maximum density, a softer image with delicate highlights.

Love Where You Live

There is many ways how to choose the right image. You can choose by Genre, Color, Format and Style. Images ranging from Aviation Art, Femme Art, Geo Art, Architeture Art, Fauna Art, Healing Art & Street Art all in Color, or Duotone.
